PASS-WORDS

Pass-Words is a fun and engaging team builder, trainer or icebreaker game. Players take turns providing one word clues to guess the hidden word and then move to the Lightning round to score additional points.

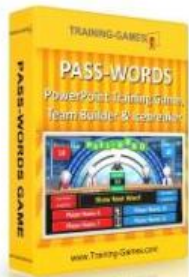

Pass-Words plays much like the famous television game but is really designed for team play in a classroom setting. Players on each team take turns giving and receiving one word clues in an effort to guess the hidden word. The greatest numbers of points are awarded to a team when they guess the word in the least number of tries. Then when one team reaches a set point total they move to the Lightning Round. Now the game gets really exciting as teams attempt to amass points with the countdown clock ticking!

What Would You Do?

The What Would You Do? Game Designer makes it simple to create real world simulations for your business or organization. We've made it easy to create an exciting game that will train your employees or members to understand and more importantly, emulate the behavioral goals, positive attributes, habits and cultural aspirations of your organization.

Some of the many features include:

- A Database to accumulate and record player/team names, ID #s, behavior scores and scenario responses, as well as a separate report for individual player responses.
- Track responses for up to 8 key behaviors.
- Select the number of scenarios (3 – 30) you want to include in your game.
- Develop as many different real world games as you like!
- No need to purchase costly behavioral assessment and training forms (Tests).
- Our custom scoring grid allows you to award points in different ways; from a range of values for a single behavior to awarding points for multiple behaviors.
- Select the number of responses for each scenario (Up to 5 responses (A – E)).
- The scoreboard automatically accumulates points and overall proficiencies on each key behavior.
- The game can be designed for individual as well as team play.
- Built-in player feedback to help you fine tune your games over time.
